A LETTER FROM SHULER HENSLEY

Having been a part of the Broadway community for the past 15 years, it has never ceased to amaze me that, no matter who I talk to about their careers and inspirations (Hugh Jackman, Bradley Cooper, Patti LaPone, Patrick Wilson, Mandy Patinkin, Eartha Kitt, Frank Langella, Billy Crudup, Ian McKellan... to name a few) the one thing that is common place is that their LOVE of the Theatre started in High School. The age when you are testing your views of the world and trying to find your place in it. Finding a place in the ARTS helped to define who they are as an Artist, but more importantly, as a Human Being. Can there be a more noble, vital cause?

As we passed the 16 year anniversary of 9/11 this fall, I am reminded of my own experience. I was playing Javert in my Broadway debut when the Towers came down. I was grappling with my own purpose in the world and wondering whether Theatre and Art were really that important in the "real" world. The first performance we did of Les Mis after 9/11 (two days later) there were only a couple hundred people in the audience. BUT at the stage door, after the show, nearly ALL of them were there to thank us for giving them, "a place to come to and escape the chaos, trauma and sickness of the world outside and to be uplifted.." Even for a few hours. Can there be a more noble, vital cause?

Having been a part of the GHSMTA for the past nine years, I have seen it grow from 11 to 75 schools. Every kid I have the chance to talk to says that this experience has "changed their life". It has given them a chance to further be exposed to the power of live theatre and the ARTS community. They meet other kids that are "just like me". They are able to "celebrate" the love of Musical Theatre and come together as ONE to inspire others as well as themselves. Can there be a more noble and vital cause?

Lastly, what can be said about the Teachers, Directors and Mentors of these children.....YOU? My Grandfather was the Superintendent and teacher for over 50 years in Marietta. He also drove me three times a week, every week, to Atlanta so that I could be "a part" of The Atlanta Boys Choir. My Mother gave me my first experience on stage in her Ballet Company's production of "The Nutcracker". My High School musical director, Frank Boggs, instilled in me the magic of song and the power of performing as a group. Teaching the love of the ARTS and the endless possibilities of its effect on others. This influence is so apparent on the faces, hearts and minds of your students when I talk to them. You have inspired and ignited a "spark" that is bigger and more powerful than any of us. The Power of ART to inspire, educate and transform the lives that are exposed to it! Can there be a more Noble and Vital cause?

Thank you for inspiring the children. For supporting their love of ART, and for supporting and recognizing the value of programs like ARTSBRIDGE and Arts Education. The GHSMTA program is really a celebration of our community of young people who have a need to inspire and affect the world around them through ART. They already know, thanks largely to YOU, that Musical Theatre and all art forms break down Walls; Racial Barriers, Religious Differences, Social stereotypes, and Economic Hierarchies and "even for a couple of hours", elevates and connects us all as HUMAN BEINGS.

There is no more Noble or Vital cause. Thank you for your commitment and support to arts education!
